United Press Finds Political Kin Hired

Seven of Former Sheriff's Family Helped—and the Hill Folks Want Justice

LITTLE ROCK—(UP)—Politics charged by Stone county unemployed over the administration of relief jobs was brought to light Saturday by the United Press in conducting its own investigation of affairs at the Mountain View relief headquarters.

Seven relatives of Sam Johnson, ousted Stone county sheriff, are on the CWA payroll.

It is charged that the unemployed are agitating trouble because the Looney-Johnson political faction controls federal relief jobs—which primarily are to relieve employment and are supposed to be given needy families.

This fact alone proves the statement made by CWA officials Saturday that "reports of violence in connection with CWA work is political propaganda only" as false.

Jobs are being given to relatives. Unemployed folks in the back country are complaining because they have been discriminated against.

Relatives on Payroll
Those of the Johnson family hired in addition to the ex-sheriff are:

Mrs. Robbie Johnson, wife, in charge of the Stone county committee handling the hiring of women workers.
John Hess, brother of the sanitary engineer.
Myrtle Maloy, niece, stenographer and clerk.
Euel Hess, cousin, employment officer.
Louis Lancaster, cousin, stenographer.

Ewen Martin, cousin, assistant employment officer.

With a setup like this there seems to be some reason for the agitation in Mountain View over the distribution of jobs.

This agitation, described as "political propaganda only," seems to have roots far deeper than that.

W. R. Dyess, chairman of the CWA for Arkansas, said, "Disappointment because every able-bodied man in Stone county has not been given work caused groups to gather on the streets and protest."

A story in a morning paper said, "Sheriff Walter Brewer thought so little of the matter that he went to Missouri on business."

But an attorney here told the United Press:

"When relief heads are allowed to employ relatives on such a large scale then there seems to be time for a little thought—it is not a little matter."

"Propaganda," Cry
MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark.—Reports of violence here in connection with CWA work is "political propaganda only," officials said Friday night.

Representatives from various districts have been here making complaints, apparently there having been a difference of opinion as to who is and who is not eligible for work. Sharecroppers and farmers who have made crops caused the greatest difficulty.

Sheriff Walter Brewer thought so little of the matter that he went to attend to his stove heading business in Willow Springs, Mo.

A few threats have been made against some officers, but "such growls are not unusual in such matters," it was declared.

Holland's Trade Shumps
THE HAGUE—(AP)—A big drop in Holland's foreign trade was shown by official figures for the first 10 months of 1933.

Compared with the same period in 1932, exports fell from $283,812,000 to $245,220,000 and imports from $436,914,000 to $339,186,000.

Residents of Meacham, Oregon, hid "Old George," a pet elk, during the fall hunting season, to save him from nimrods.

Assistant Attorney General Robert F. Smith this week obtained injunctions in several counties to prohibit the cutting of timber off land which has been forfeited through non-payment of taxes.

The last injunctions covered approximately 55,000 acres in Garland, Hot Spring, Saline, Grant and Bradley counties.

Prior to the last named injunctions, Mr. Smith had forced discontinuance of timber cutting on another 55,000 acres of land.

In one instance the owner of 40,000 acres of land redeemed after the filing of the application for injunction. Thus the amount obtained by the state on the large redemption deal is more than paid for all the expense of attempting to protect the state's interest in forfeited lands.

Other applications for injunction are being prepared and will be filed soon unless the owners either redeem the land through payment of taxes, or cease cutting off the timber.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States Saturday informed its members that "growing confidence, inspired by favorable signs of business recovery, characterizes the official attitude in Washington."

The chamber said this increased confidence "is based on the following:

"Reports to the administration of a trade revival in various countries.
"Increasing stimulus of various recovery measures, effects of which are declared to be more apparent.
"An appreciable increase in farm buying-power."

"The congressional outlook, the chamber went on to say, appears to be less disturbing."

'Messiah' Is to Be Performed Dec. 17

Choral Club to Present
It Week From Sunday
at First Baptist

Handel's Messiah, which is being sponsored by the Choral club, under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Carlton, will be rendered at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 17, in the auditorium of First Baptist church of Hope.

It has been rendered many times in many places and is said to be the most representative of all works of its class.

The Messiah is simply scripture set to music. The text is composed almost wholly of the prophecies of the old Bible and their fulfillment as recorded in the new.

The work is divided into three parts:

1. The foretelling of the Messiah by the prophets, the celestial announcements heralding his birth and the reception of the "children of great joy" by the shepherds at their vigil.

2. The appearance of the Messiah on earth as the Redeemer and Savior of mankind; his passion, death and exaltation; the spread of the Gospel in the land.

3. Proclaims the truths of Christianity and the actual existence of the Redeemer; the resurrection of the body and the life everlasting. Here is that marvelous Hallelujah chorus, of which it is said, "Among all the Hallelujahs in music, it is the Alpha and Omega—the only one."

The program and personnel of the chorus will appear in this paper later.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—W. A. Billingsley, of Newport, member of the State Pen Board, Saturday confirmed a report that three members of the board Friday voted to request the resignation of A. G. Stedman as prison superintendent but postponed final action until after a conference with Governor Futrell.

Chairman Trulock denied that the resignation had been requested, and other members would make no comment.

It was learned that another meeting of the board is planned within two or three days, and a final decision is expected after conferences with the governor, who is out of the city at present.

CALDWELL'S CRASH
Failure of Tennessee
House Closed 46 Banks
in Arkansas in 1930

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Colonel Luke Lea, former senator, and his eldest son Luke Lea, Jr., fighting extradition to North Carolina, lost in the Tennessee Supreme Court Saturday.

The high court sustained North Carolina's demurrer to the Lea's petition for a writ of habeas corpus following Governor McAlister's order for their extradition.

The Leas were convicted more than two years ago at Asheville, N. C., of violating the North Carolina banking laws.

The elder Lea was sentenced to six to ten years imprisonment and the younger Lea to the alternative of paying a $25,000 fine or serving two to six years.

Another Appeal
NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(P)—Luke Lea and his son announced late Saturday that they planned to carry the North Carolina extradition proceedings to the United States Supreme Court. It will be their third appeal to the highest tribunal, having lost on two previous points.

A Record Court Fight
By one technically or another the Leas have set something of a legal record in delaying execution of their sentences for banking violations following the crash of the Bank of Tennessee and the Rogers Caldwell-Luke Lea financial and newspaper interests.

Their appeal was taken twice to the United States Supreme Court and lost.

Then, when North Carolina formally requested extradition from their native state of Tennessee the Lea father and son went into hiding in the hills—from which they emerged in what appears to be the final chapter before they begin serving time in prison.

Luke Lea, Sr., publisher of the Nashville Tennessean, allied himself with Rogers Caldwell, son of a famous Tennessee banker, building up the brokerage and investment house of Caldwell.

In 1927 they bought the Memphis Commercial Appeal, and tried unsuccessfully to buy the Atlanta Constitution, Clark Howell and his son finally withdrawing from what they believed to be an unwise contract of sale.

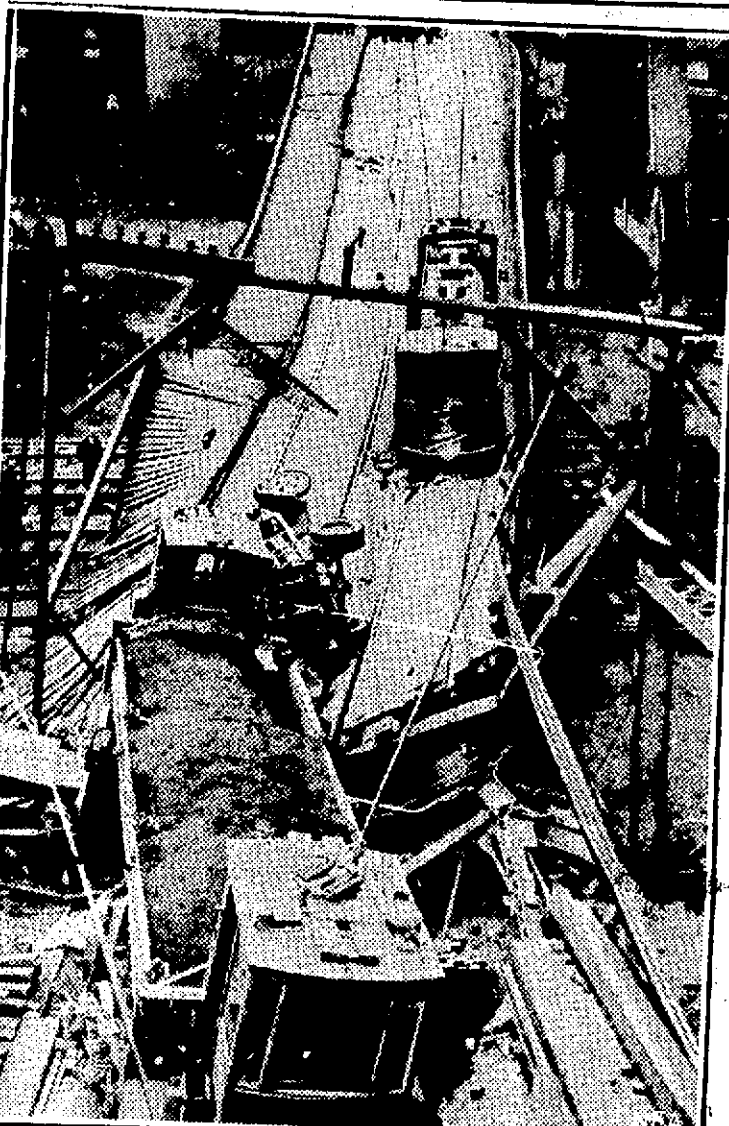

Caldwell & Co. failed in 1930, carrying down with it A. B. Banks & Co. of Arkansas, which included the defunct Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. of Hope. Although Mr. Banks had sold Caldwell only a portion of his banking-insurance business, failure of the Bank of Tennessee at Nashville, Tenn., November 10, 1930, so alarmed the public that a run started on Bank's key bank, the American-Exchange Trust company at Little Rock, ending with the suspension of the entire Bank's system November 17.

Lea entered the Caldwell picture primarily as publisher of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, which he and his partner bought the year following the death of its great editor C. P. J. Mooney.

With the failure of the Caldwell investment and banking houses it was revealed that Lea and Caldwell had drawn $300,000 in cash from the Commercial Appeal's resources, to save their banks and a paper-mill company threw the Commercial Appeal into receivership.

Paper Is Sold
The Commercial Appeal finally was sold last spring to James Hammond, an Arkansas man who years ago went East and rose to eminence first in banking and department stores, and then with William Randolph Hearst as head of his Detroit Times. Mr. Hammond announced, however, that he bought the Commercial Appeal for points in the next day or so. I guess that was one time when some one got the best of a Wall Street banker.

$23,825 CWA Job Approved for City; New Loop System

Dead-End Lines to Be Tied Together for Fire Protection

CITY TO BUY PIPE
Two More Roads Approved—Three County
Schools Apply

Extension of the city's water mains was approved Friday as a $23,825 CWA project for Hope.

Final arrangements were completed when Mayor R. A. Boyett and Alderman Roy Anderson conferred with State Civil Works Administration officials at Little Rock Friday.

The city will bear over $10,000 of the expense, furnishing all material. The federal government will provide the labor. R. B. Stanford, Hempstead county CWA engineer, said.

Actual work is expected to start next week, as quickly as new pipe arrives.

Three Results
Extension of the water mains has three important features:

First, the new set-up would give the system a loop formation, thereby eliminating dead-ends.

Second, the new plan would extend the mains into expanding sections of the city.

Third, extension of the water mains would tend to reduce fire insurance rates on property within the city.

Final approval of this project climaxes a three-year effort of civic-minded citizens to extend the water mains. Several months ago the city council sought to purchase material and use RFC labor, but at that time dissen- sion broke out and the project fell through.

Other CWA projects approved Friday were improvements to be made on Oglesby, Paisley and Brookwood schools of Hope, and the high school at Ozan.

Aid for County Schools
Mr. Stanford was expecting approval Saturday of repair work for Columbus, Washington and Blevins schools. Approval of repair work, on other rural schools is pending.

Two new road projects, bringing the total to 13 in the county were also approved:

The Rosston to Shover Springs to Patmos road, which will include drainage and graveling.

The other is in the north end of Wallaceburg township, extending toward Blevins.

Hempstead county has reached its quota of 77 laborers. An increase has been asked in order to give additional men work. Approval was expected sometime Saturday.

Approximately 4,000 persons have registered for employment, some of which are less deserving under the CWA program. Local officials earnestly expressed the desire to have anyone in need reported to them at once in order that they can be taken care of in preference to the less needy.

Mother Kills; Avenge Son

The woman's missionary society of First Baptist church will hold their regular Bible study, conducted by Rev. Wallace R. Rogers at 2:30 Monday afternoon at the church.

Mrs. Robert Kennedy, Mrs. R. W. Cobb and Mrs. J. H. Yeager, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Lewis for the past few days have returned to their homes in Camden.

A beautiful home wedding was solemnized at 4 o'clock, Friday afternoon when Miss Bertha Turner McRae daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey McRae and William Glover, son of Congressman and Mrs. D. D. Glover of Malvern were wed at the McRae home on East Third street, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives with Dr. Thomas Brewster, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, reading the beautiful double ring service.

The entire lower floor of the handsome McRae home was beautifully decorated with graceful festoons of southern smilax and attractive arrangement of lovely roses and gorgeous chrysanthemums, and the place of ceremony in front of the large mantle in the east parlor was banked with smilax and ferns interspersed with white roses and white lighted tapers that served as a background for floor standards of large white chrysanthemums. The nuptial music was played by Mrs. Bennie Shipp all piano and Miss Helen McRae violinist who played "Sweetest Story Every Told" preceding Miss Eleanor Foster's solo, "I Love You Truly."

During the ceremony, Mrs. Shipp and Miss McRae played "Liebestraum" and Miss McRae played "Lobachtraum" and Liszt. The bride's only attendant, her sister, Mrs. Billy Duckett, who wore a blue crepe model with cowl neckline and black decollete with silver slippers and silver hat, and carried an arm bouquet of soft yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride was lovely in an afternoon gown of bronzed star dust crepe fashioned with draped sleeves and graceful floor length lines, she wore gold slippers and a small hat of calla lilies and white killarney rosettes. The bridegroom's brother, Julian Glover of Malvern served as best man.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The dining room was decorated with southern smilax and yellow chrysanthemums, the lace covered beauty table held for the center ornament a mound of yellow chrysanthemums and baby breath, with white tulle at the four corners. Mrs. Young Foster assisted by Miss Alice and Elizabeth Bernier, Elizabeth Middlebrooks, Frances White, Hattie Anne Feld and Alice Fritchard served a delightful ice course. Miss Cornelia Whitehurst presided over the bride's book. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Glover left for a wedding trip to New Orleans and other southern cities, upon their return they will be at home in Malvern.

The bride attended school in New York City, and the University of Arkansas, where she was pledged to the Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Glover is a

Status of Small Mills Unchanged

Southern Pine Ass'n. Allows Them to Sell on Differential

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Decisions on matters of importance in connection with administration of the Lumber Code in the 17 states comprising the Southern Pine Division, were made by the board of directors of the Southern Pine Association, administrative agency, at a meeting in New Orleans that started Wednesday.

The directors' meeting was the climax to a series of sessions beginning here Monday morning by the code administrative committees on Forest Conservation, Cost Protection, Trade Practices, and Industry Control, and the Grading and Finance committees of the association.

One of the important actions announced was a change in the method of classifying certain operations whose products are of sub-standard quality, or which lack assortment, or facilities and equipment for refinement of their output, so as to entitle them to sell their products at a specified differential below the established minimum prices for Southern pine, in order that they might compete on an equitable basis with the larger and fully equipped operations.

The effort previously had been made to classify the mills entitled to a price differential as Class "B," but this process was decided to be not feasible.

Under the new method mills that have a normal capacity rating of 20,000 feet or less per 10-hour day, or that do not produce and sell a large percentage of the higher grades or treated and kiln dried stock may be eligible to sell at the price differential upon presentation to the administrative agency of acceptable evidence that their products or facilities require such differential treatment.

KANSAS CITY, (P)—Clarence Click, 27, who was pictured by his attorneys as the unwilling tool of leaders of the gang that kidnaped Miss Mary McElroy, 25, last May and held her for $30,000 ransom, was convicted here Friday by a jury which fixed the penalty at eight years in prison.

Miss McElroy was in a hospital recuperating from a nervous breakdown when the verdict was returned. Her father, H. F. McElroy, city manager, testified at Click's trial that his daughter had suffered the breakdown as a result of her experiences while her abductors kept her chained to a basement wall of Click's house near Kansas City, Kan.

Mary Pickford to Divorce Fairbanks

Long-Awaited Suit Finally Filed by Famous Actress

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(P)—Charging mental cruelty, indifference and neglect, Mary Pickford, film actress, Friday filed a suit for divorce from Douglas Fairbanks, motion picture actor.

The complaint sets forth: That Fairbanks lacked consideration for his wife's feelings and sensibilities; that he publicly announced he had no interest in life except travel and "destroyed the legitimate ends of matrimony"; that he absented himself from home for months at a time and that in view of the position of the husband and wife, this caused "much public criticism and unfair comment."

Miss Pickford said: "For the past several years, my married life has become increasingly un-

Stomach Removed, But Man Is Alive

Small Intestine "Carries on" for Man Whisky Had Ruined

CHICAGO—The complete recovery of a man whose stomach was entirely removed in an operation performed on November 2 by Dr. Karl A. Meyer, chief surgeon of the Cook County hospital, was announced Friday at the hospital.

The small intestine is performing the functions of a stomach, and the patient is leading a normal healthy life. This is the first complete recovery from such an operation on record in the United States.

The removal of Kral's stomach was decided upon by Dr. Meyer when X-ray photos showed that it had shrunk to one-fifth its normal size according to Dr. Peter A. Ross, Dr. Meyer's assistant. The shrinkage was caused by Kral's daily habit of drinking a pint or more of prohibition whisky over a long period of time. Constant stomach pains caused him to go to the hospital.

Bateman Charges Foes Framed Him

Contractor Declares Bond Is Arranged in Little Rock

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(P)—Norman S. Bateman, of Nashville, Tenn., contractor who escaped arrest by city detectives Friday night on an Arkansas charge of kidnapping, said Saturday that arrangements have been made in Little Rock to provide bond on the charge.

Bateman said the Arkansas charge was "a trumped-up political maneuver timed so as to discredit me."

Under indictment
LITTLE ROCK—(P)—Norman S. Bateman was indicted by the same grand jury that returned true bills against former State Highway Commissioner Chairman Dwight H. Blackwood, former Chief Engineer C. S. Christian, and Frank M. Marsh, of Topeka, Kas., resident engineer in charge of the Cotter (Ark.) bridge.

The four are charged with conspiracy in connection with the construction of the bridge, for which the Highway Audit Commission alleged the state was overcharged.

Further Warning on Processing Tax

Rate on Hogs Climbs From 50 Cents to $2 Per Hundred

LITTLE ROCK—The following information is given for the guidance of processors of hogs:

On and after November 5, 1933, there is a tax on all hogs killed for market purposes. The tax is due by the processor or agency that kills and is based on live weight. Return to be made and tax paid at the end of each month on Form 4.

The rate per hundred, live weight in November, 50c; December, $1.00; January, $1.50; February, $2.00. The tax is due at the rate in effect on date of slaughter.

Producers of hogs who kill for their own home consumption are exempt from tax, if no portion of the slaughter is for market.

If any portion of the carcass is for market, the whole kill should be reported and exemption claimed upon Producer's Form 29, at the time of filing Form 4, for the amount used or retained by the Producer for their household consumption.

If the producer has dressed weight (whole carcass) instead of live weight, he can ascertain live weight upon the following basis:

Article Dressed Live
Carcass Fresh Weight Weight
Head and leaf incl. 100 lb. 132 lb.
Head incl., leaf removed 100 lb. 134 lb.
Head removed, leaf incl. 100 lb. 138 lb.
Head and leaf removed 100 lb. 139 lb.

If article or portion is not covered above, information will be supplied by this office. In many instances County Agricultural Agents are assisting producers with detailed information.

An accurate record must be kept of all hogs processed for market and tax paid upon all hogs except that portion that is covered by Producer's affidavit, his Form 29.

Form 29 is in the hands of all grist millers and is the same as used in corn processing.

Forms will be furnished by this office, upon request, for the monthly

Clarence Click Given Eight Years for McElroy Case

KANSAS CITY, (P)—Clarence Click, 27, who was pictured by his attorneys as the unwilling tool of leaders of the gang that kidnaped Miss Mary McElroy, 25, last May and held her for $30,000 ransom, was convicted here Friday by a jury which fixed the penalty at eight years in prison.

Miss McElroy was in a hospital recuperating from a nervous breakdown when the verdict was returned. Her father, H. F. McElroy, city manager, testified at Click's trial that his daughter had suffered the breakdown as a result of her experiences while her abductors kept her chained to a basement wall of Click's house near Kansas City, Kan.

Long-Awaited Suit Finally Filed by Famous Actress

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(P)—Charging mental cruelty, indifference and neglect, Mary Pickford, film actress, Friday filed a suit for divorce from Douglas Fairbanks, motion picture actor.

The complaint sets forth: That Fairbanks lacked consideration for his wife's feelings and sensibilities; that he publicly announced he had no interest in life except travel and "destroyed the legitimate ends of matrimony"; that he absented himself from home for months at a time and that in view of the position of the husband and wife, this caused "much public criticism and unfair comment."
